Dear Allen:

12/3/8

I have your letter of 15 December suggesting that I might sit down with you and some of your staff to talk over recent developments.

I welcome the opportunity and accept your invitation with pleasure. If agreeable with you, I will telephone you the first week in January and try to arrange a date that will be mutually satisfactory.

I take this opportunity to send you and your family my best wishes for Christmas and the New Year.

Sincerely,

David

Dear Dave:

There have been many momentous changes in the world since we last corresponded and since you were kind enough to send me some of your stimulating views as to waging the cold war. The development of the communes in China is most interesting and thought-provoking, and the continual indications of the power struggle in the Soviet bloc certainly deserve most serious consideration.

The thought has occurred to me that you might enjoy sitting down with myself and some of my staff to talk over some of these developments the next time you are in Washington. If this appeals to you, why don't you have your office get in touch with mine and set up a mutually agreeable time.

Sincerely,

SIGNED
Allen W. Dulles
